

PSYCH1140: Structuring essay & creating outline

Tuesday, 8 February 2022

Useful reading

- Organizing a research paper by Kate Navickas, Cornell Writing Center, Knight Institute.

Revisit assignment 1

Let's look back at the prompt for assignment 1.

Based on the readings, what is one important property of the brain that allows us to process and make sense of experience? Does this property suggest that representations of past events (memory) are the same as representations of future plans? Discuss two pieces of evidence from the reading that support your position.

In groups, go through this prompt together and try to break it down into a few main components. Use the exercise sheet below to guide your discussion:

Group exercise sheet

Let's look at the readings we prepared for today's class.

The readings you have prepared for today's class are of two different "flavors". One is a write-up published in Business Insider and another is a review article published in a scientific journal. In groups, closely compare these two articles, particularly in thinking about the use of quotations in your writeup. Use the exercise sheet below to guide your discussion:

PSYCH1140 - IC.Ex.5

Group exercise sheet